Helps Gives His Views on the Monroe Doctrine.

PEOPLE DISAGREE WITH HIM

The United States Has no Business in the Venezuellan Matter. Hon. Edward L. Dineen, ex-minister to Great Britain, has a lecture before the law department of the Brooklyn Institute of the Sciences on the Monroe doctrine.

YORK, March 31.—Hon. Edward L. Dineen, ex-minister to Great Britain, has a lecture before the law department of the Brooklyn Institute of the Sciences on the Monroe doctrine.

Speaker began by saying that he had no habit of speaking his mind, and he adheres to the various disputes between the European nations had not and the possibilities of disputes, he took up the question of the boundary line between Venezuela and British Guiana.

He referred to it as a matter in which the United States had no personal concern. Great Britain had acquired Brumana, he said, nearly two centuries ago, and the boundary line had a dispute for more than a century. It was that no line existed or existed.

As a question, he asserted, for arbitration between the two nations. Great Britain and Venezuela, where the boundary line should be drawn. International law, he said, was merely international morality, and was formulated through the consent of civilized mankind.

There were but two exceptions of the rule of nonintervention, the one that for humanity, as in the case of Armenia at the present time, and the second in which the interests of a country are imperiled. Until it was manifest he declared he was not to interfere.

He said that the present case of the Monroe doctrine had been the front it was American policy, and it was nothing but interest and to a policy or command where no apparent was to transgress all.

The enforcement of the Monroe doctrine, he declared, is the act of the bully. No nation should set itself up against the rest of the world. He spoke also of the attitude of the United States toward Spain, and he said was endeavoring down a rebellion of men of banishment and arson and murder.

Mr. Effer's resolution for the appointment of a special committee of five senators to investigate recent bond issues had this relegated to the calendar owing to the opposition of Mr. Hill, but it was reached in the regular order.

Again Mr. Hill sought to have the resolution go over, but he was met by energetic protests not only from Mr. Effer but also from Mr. Wolcott and Mr. Teller. The latter gave notice that further delays would not be resorted to, and Mr. Effer followed with notice that he would move to proceed with this bond inquiry resolution as soon as Mr. George concludes a speech on the Dupont case. This promise to bring a test vote unless dilatory tactics postpone the measure.

HE'S IN TROUBLE.

Anson Strong Charged With the Stone Murder.

HE MADE SOME DIRE THREATS.

Two Terms in the Penitentiary Are Placed to His Credit and Each Time Mr. Stone Was a Material Witness Against Him—There Are Other Strong Circumstances Against Him.

AKRON, O., March 31.—Anson B. Strong was arrested at Ravenna, Portage county, and charged with the murder of Mr. and Mrs. Alvin N. Stone at Tallmadge on Saturday night.

The evidence on which the charge is based is largely circumstantial. Thirteen years ago Strong was sent to the penitentiary for horsestealing, his conviction being secured by the testimony of Stone.

Several years later, after his release from prison, he was arrested again for the same crime and again convicted on the testimony of Stone. He gained his liberty the second time about three weeks ago.

When taken into custody Strong said he was at the home of his sister in Ravenna all of Saturday night and that he had gone to church Sunday morning. A search of the sister's house, however, resulted in the discovery of a suit of clothes and an overcoat which had been placed by a stove to dry.

There were no bloodstains on the clothing, but Strong's sister said she had washed the garments in an outhouse early in the morning. In one of Strong's pockets was found a railroad ticket from Ravenna to Kent, the latter place being within two miles of the scene of Saturday night's tragedy. The ticket was purchased last Saturday.

Strong was brought here at 6 o'clock last evening and placed in jail. The news of the arrest soon spread and a big crowd assembled. There was no disorder but Mayor Harper decided to prevent an outbreak by ordering battery A of the light artillery to assemble at its armory and await developments.

It is generally known that when Strong was convicted he declared he would kill Stone and his family as soon as he got out of prison, and it is the prevailing opinion that he has made good this declaration.

RODDED HIS MOTHER AND OTHERS

Now He Is Trying His Best to Keep Out of

THE GREAT SOUTH AMERICAN NERVINE TONIC

AND Stomach and Liver Cure

The Most Astonishing Medical Discovery of the Last One Hundred Years.

It is Pleasant to the Taste as the Sweetest Nectar. It is Safe and Harmless as the Purest Milk.

This wonderful Nervine Tonic has only recently been introduced into this country by the proprietors and manufacturers of the Great South American Nervine Tonic, and yet its great value as a curative agent has long been known by a few of the most learned physicians, who have not brought its merits and value to the knowledge of the general public.

This medicine has completely solved the problem of the cure of indigestion, dyspepsia, and diseases of the general nervous system. It is one of the greatest values in the cure of all forms of failing health from whatever cause. It performs this by the great nervine tonic qualities which it possesses, and by its great curative powers upon the digestive tract, the stomach, the liver and the bowels. No remedy compares with this wonderfully valuable Nervine Tonic as a builder and strengthening of the life forces of the human body, and as a great renewer of a broken-down constitution. It is also of more real permanent value in the treatment and cure of diseases of the lungs than any consumption remedy ever used on this continent. It is a marvelous cure for nervousness of females of all ages. Ladies who are approaching the critical period known as change in life, should not fail to use this great Nervine Tonic, almost constantly, for the space of two or three years. It will carry them safely over the danger. This great strengthener and curative is of inestimable value to the aged and infirm, because its great energizing properties will give them a new hold on life. It will add ten to fifteen years to the lives of many of those who will use a half dozen bottles of the remedy each year.

IT IS A GREAT REMEDY FOR THE CURE OF

Neurasthenia, Nervous Prostration, Nervous Headache, Nervous Weakness, Nervous Chills, Nervous Paroxysms and Nervous Choking, Nervous Flashes, Nervous Palpitation of the Heart, Nervous Despondency, Nervousness, Nervous Dance, Nervousness of Females, Nervousness of Old Age, Nervousness of the Lungs, Nervousness of the Stomach, Nervous Complaint, Nervous Diarrhea, Nervous and Scrofulous Children, Summer Complaint of Infants.

All these and many other complaints cured by this wonderful Nervine Tonic.

NERVOUS DISEASES.

As a cure for every class of Nervous Diseases, no remedy has been so compared with the Nervine Tonic, which is very pleasant and does in all its effects upon the youngest child or the oldest and most delicate individual. Nine-tenths of all the ailments to which the human body is liable are dependent on nervous exhaustion and impaired digestion. When there is an insufficient supply of nerve food in the blood, a general state of debility of the brain, spinal marrow, and nerves is the result. Starved nerves, like starved muscles, become strong when the kind of food is supplied; and a thousand weaknesses and ailments disappear as the nerves recover. As the nervous system must supply all the power by which the vital forces of the body are carried on, it is the most important part of perfect nutrition. Ordinary food does not contain sufficient quantity of the kind of nutriment necessary to repair the wear and present mode of living and labor imposes upon the nerves. This reason it becomes necessary that a nerve food be supplied. The Great South American Nervine has been found by analysis to contain the essential elements out of which nerve tissue is formed. This accounts for its universal adaptability to the cure of all forms of nervous debility.

A SURE CURE FOR ST. VITUS' DANCE OR CHOREA.

My daughter, eleven years old, was severely afflicted with St. Vitus' Dance. We gave her three and one-half bottles of South American Nervine and she is completely restored. I believe it will cure every case of St. Vitus' Dance. I have kept it in my family for two years, and am sure it is the greatest remedy in the world for Indigestion and Dyspepsia, and for all forms of Nervous Disorders and Failing Health, from whatever cause.

A WANE IN WEDLOCK.

JUNIUS HENRI BROWNE SEES IT AND GIVES THE REASON.

He Says It Is One Result of Woman's New Sense of Freedom—A Word Concerning Matrimonial Disorders—A Cynical Jest Carried Out.

Ever since the institution of marriage as its true sense—the legal union of two members of different sex—woman has been supposed to be eager to get a husband. She has never been exposed to be more eager than in this new republic, where matrimony has been the rule and hope the basis of the experiment. She is still supposed to be as eager as ever, presuming her to have been eager before, but she is not by any means. The last 25 or 30 years have wrought a decided change in her mind, if not in her heart, respecting wedlock. She no longer looks on it as entirely romantic, as is thought to have been her wont, but more or less in a practical light; which is wholesome and desirable. She has never had, at least she has never shown, so much common sense as now on this subject, and on subjects in general; the reason being, as is believed, that she has undertaken to do something for herself.

As the main motive for marriage with women has been, it is assumed, to be taken care of, it is easy to see why that motive must at this time have lost much of its force, and why it is likely to lose much more. Altogether the most important question in life is material living—physical subsistence—and if woman can earn this for herself, as she has abundantly proved, why should she, aside from emotionalism, want a husband? Love, sympathy, the divine passion, the hunger of the heart, the necessity of close companionship, the absolute need of spiritual comradeship, though vague and poetic, must be reckoned with, but what are they compared with what is vulgarly known as the bread and butter problem?

We men all know what a sense of freedom, expansion, independence, the realized capacity to earn money to sustain ourselves affords us. Women, to whom such capacity is new, are vastly more affected by its possession. The favorable side of congeniality does not reach our ears. What we call happiness is usually silent. No wonder, therefore, that women still free from all special entanglements should look warily at them, should hold them in wholesome dread. Celibacy is at least safe. Matrimony is uncertain and stuffed with perils.

One evidence that women have today relinquished expectation and thought of marriage is that so many of them, wage earners and still young, are constantly forming partnerships, in all large cities, for co-operative housekeeping. They rent rooms or a small apartment together, share the expense and live comfortably and contentedly, rendering husbands superfluous. The new plan has thus far proved eminently successful with the new order of women and is finding imitators everywhere.

Miscellaneous bachelors have often said in the past, "Why don't women let men alone, and marry one another?" The cynical jest has been acted on and carried to a prosperous issue, so far as one-sided wedlock can be prosperous. Bachelorhood has long been increasing in America, and the recent development of assured spinsterhood has greatly stimulated the increase. And both sexes, happily, are satisfied with the novel arrangement. JUNIUS HENRI BROWNE.

GIFTED AND HANDSOME.

Remarkable Career of Mrs. Maud Ballington Booth.

Mrs. Ballington Booth is handsome, gifted and as much at home in the drawing rooms of wealth as she is in the slums of wretchedness. Mrs. Booth is a graceful lady, a little below the medium height, and her face is attractive. She has, moreover, a wonderful gift of speech, probably natural as well as acquired, and is never at a loss to create interest and enthusiasm when on the speaker's platform. Her maiden name was Maud Charlesworth, and she is the daughter of a Church of England clergyman. She is about 26 years old. As a child she became interested in the Salvation Army, and has now been connected with it for 11 years. She began her work in Paris, and then went to Switzerland, where she was persecuted more than any place she ever visited. After working some time in the slums of London she came to this country with her husband. Her oldest boy, William, is now 8 years old, and attends school in Montclair, N. J., where the Booths reside. Her little girl, Theodora, has just passed the third milestone of her life road. The Booths live in a hired house, and it is plainly furnished. Mrs. Booth is much interested in surgery, and has published two works on the amateur phases of the subject.

Mrs. Booth claims that the Salvation Army is the apostle of new womanhood; that the Army was the first to allow them to do battle on the same footing with men. But there is another kind of new woman, of whom she says:

"The new woman of the times is a woman who hates men, who sneers at wifehood and motherhood, who dislikes children and who lavishes the affection which belongs to them on a pug nosed dog, which she carries in the great, manish pocket of her mannish attire. She wants to emancipate us. We don't want her to emancipate us, for the true new woman in rising higher must rise to man's level, and then raise him and woman alike to the same higher plane. I would like to take the new woman's dress and change it. I would have it made over for the children in the homes. Her hair sleeves would clothe a whole family of ragged little ones, and I would give some of her other habits to the poor to which they belong. I would take the books she writes and the books she reads, the examples of disgusting realism which her mother would blush to see, and burn them in the fire with her cigarettes and her chewing gum. Then I would try to get her down to the Salvation Army hall and emancipate her. If that didn't work, I would prescribe for her a strong willed husband, who would teach her all that is great and good and strong in the other sex."

A MIDNIGHT DREAM.

SISTER AND SISTER REUNITED IN A STRANGE MANNER.

Met After Half a Century—Stillwagner Prayed For Divine Help—His Sister's Residence Revealed to Him in a Vision. Story Is Vouched For.

Jacob Stillwagner, an aged resident of Boydtown, a small village three miles east of Shamokin, Pa., has just returned from St. Louis, Mo., and tells a remarkable story of how he and one of his long lost sisters were reunited through the medium of his prayers and dreams. He claims that he was born in Iowa 65 years ago, where he lived, together with his parents, a sister and two brothers, until he arrived at the age of 7 years, when both of his parents died suddenly, leaving the four small children without any means of support.

Kind neighbors provided for the little ones until permanent homes could be found for them, but within a year of their great bereavement they were scattered far apart and soon all trace of each other. Mr. Stillwagner says that his adopted parents drifted eastward, and just as he arrived at the age of manhood he located at Boydtown, where he has since resided.

He made frequent attempts to find some trace of his brothers and sister as the years passed by, but it was not until early last fall that he met with any success in this direction. Then while walking across the mountain from Boydtown to Shamokin he was seized with an overwhelming desire to find his long lost relatives, and kneeling on the fallen autumn leaves earnestly prayed God to direct his steps toward his brothers or sister, and allow them to be reunited before being called to their eternal home.

The desire to find his loved ones became the sole object of Stillwagner's remitting days, and about three weeks after his prayer in the forest he dreamed that he was at Shamokin, Wis., where he found his sister, from whom he had heard no tidings for more than half a century. He distinctly saw the interior of her home and had her features and the external surroundings of her home indelibly stamped upon his brain.

When he related this dream to his friends, they laughed and tried to convince the old gentleman that it was merely the result of his continual thinking and talking on the subject that was absorbing all of his time and attention. He could not be discouraged, however, and resolved to investigate on the lines laid out in his dream.

The name of his sister, the most important clue, had not been revealed to him in his midnight vision, but he communicated with the postmaster of the little Wisconsin village, describing the house and minutes he had seen, and closed by asking whether such a habitation and family really existed there. Several weeks passed before he received a reply, but the anxiously looked for letter gave the history of the woman occupying the home he described, and convinced Stillwagner that it really was his sister.

So confident was he on this point that he left for Wisconsin, and upon his return east he started his friends by announcing that the woman he dreamed of was none other than his missing sister, who is now surrounded by a happy family. Mr. Stillwagner adds that since his return east he visited Philadelphia, where he found acquaintances of the family that had adopted his sister now residing in Wisconsin, who verified her story and completely established her identity.

His remarkable story is vouched for by the Methodist minister of whose church he is a member, and the aged dreamer is now earnestly imploring God to give him traces of his two missing brothers.—Philadelphia Press.

His Garments Are Distinguished.

George Harold, the boy tramp, on his return trip from Oakland, Cal., to New York, reached Leno, Ill., recently, having completed 5,000 miles. He gets his twenty-fifth pair of shoes at Leno. He is in good health, has $180 more than his wage calls for, and is ahead of time. Harold wears a coat of Carter Harrison's, John Wagoner's trousers and Governor Morton's vest, and carries Ada Rehan's valise.—Chicago Record.

To Honor the "King of the Jews."

In the senate the other day Mr. Pepper (Pop., Kan.) presented a petition from a constituent of his asking congress to make "Reconciliation day," April 6, a national holiday in honor of the "King of the Jews, who has always been the true friend of the United States."

SPORT UP TO DATE.

The athletic committee of the Boston Athletic association has decided that, owing to lack of interest among the members, a track athletic team should not be sent to Athens to compete in the Olympic games in April.

Two hundred men had promised $350 and ten men had promised $100 apiece toward the expenses, but the club, acting by its committee, declined to subscribe the $250 additionally needed.

The Corinthian Yacht club of Yalo has received word from Harvard that, owing to the action of the Harvard advisory committee in regard to sports between Yalo and Harvard, there can be no yacht race between the clubs of the two universities this year.

At a recent sale of horses at Cambridge City, Ind., C. Carroll of New York city is credited with the purchase of Faustina Smith for $1,000 and Alfred for $1,600.

The date upon which Steve O'Donnell will fight O'Connell, the Australian, in the National Sporting club, London, is April 20. The purse is $1,000, with $200 to O'Donnell for expenses.

He Got None.

"Did you hear about Samuels?" asked Mrs. Graymore's husband. "No. I didn't hear about Samuels," the lady answered. "When you have anything to tell, why don't you tell it?" "Yes, dear. Well, Samuels was going home the other night, when a foot-pat shot at him, and the ball hit a latch-key in Samuels' vest pocket, and his life was saved. So you see what good a latch-key is."

"Indeed, if Samuels had been going home at a reasonable hour, he wouldn't have met any foot-pat. Secondly, he carries $50,000 insurance, payable to his wife, and if it had not been for that key he would be a rich widow right now. So if you are hunting around for a latch-key you will have to bring home some better story than that one. That's all. I'm going to go to bed now, and if you want to read you'll have to go to the kitchen. And don't waste the coal."

The King of Korea.

Wouldn't you like to be king of Korea just now? Next to the king of the Cambal Islands, who may at any time be served up as a ragout or in the shape of a broil or a roast, the Korean potentate occupies an enviable position. Since the assassination of the queen he is in daily fear of his life. He is afraid to eat anything unless it has been specially prepared by the wife of the American missionary doctor, Mrs. Underwood. His loving subjects might drop something into his soup, so his meals are sent to him in a locked box, one key of which Mrs. Underwood has, while he has the other. If any one could pick that lock, the cry would be heard in the streets: "The king is dead! Long live the king!" What a charming life to lead! What a happy man that king must be—almost as happy as the New York tramp, who can quietly freeze to death because they won't let him sleep in the station house.—New York Herald.

Not to Be Trifled With.

[From Cincinnati Gazette.]

Will people never learn that a "cold" is an accident to be dreaded, and that when it occurs treatment should be promptly applied? There is no knowing where the trouble will end, and while complete recovery is the rule, the exceptions are terribly frequent, and thousands upon thousands of fatal illnesses occur every year ushered in by a little injudicious exposure and seemingly trifling symptoms. Beyond this, there are today countless invalids who can trace their complaints to "colds," which at the time of occurrence gave no concern, and were therefore neglected.—When troubled with a cold use Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. It is prompt and effective. 25 and 50 cent bottles for sale by L. H. Flocken, Druggist.

A Seeker After Knowledge.

"Who was Aunt Ellen's mamma?" "Mrs. Thompson." "Will I see her when I go to Centerville to see Aunt Ellen?" "No, dear. She went to heaven a long time ago." "Will I see her when I go to heaven?" "Perhaps." "Say, mamma, will she be in the Centerville heaven or in our heaven?"—Indianapolis Journal.

Burns are absolutely painless when DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve is promptly applied. This statement is true. A perfect remedy for skin diseases, chapped hands and lips, and never fails to cure piles. Flocken's Drug Store.

A Big Factory was brought to a standstill the other day for want of a common shingle—nail. The trouble was a mystery at first. Even the boss mechanic couldn't tell what was the matter. They sent for a high-priced expert who charged them dollars an hour. All he said was: "Gimme a nail." He drove it in the right place and in two minutes the whole factory was going again. That's the way with the machinery of the human body.

Thin Speaker and Melba.

Mme. Melba, the prima donna, spent an hour at the capitol recently and enjoyed herself hugely. She had been in Washington before, but never had been in the capitol. It was all new to her. An Australian by birth, a cosmopolitan in residence, she nevertheless was doubtfully ignorant of the way in which the wheels of government are made to revolve. She had not even heard of Senator Peffer!

With all the emotions of a new discoverer, as Charles Lamb would say, she wandered through the corridors, delighted with everything she saw. The awful solemnity of the supreme court made her shiver her shoulders in tragic despair, she laughed at the way in which her musical voice came echoing back to her in Statuary hall, and if she had endured the stupidity of the senate for more than ten minutes she would have been bored. She had a comment for everything. "Doesn't this look comely," she said when she saw the president's room, with its rich red and gold furnishings.

She met Speaker Reed in the course of her excursion. "Why don't you have a fight here?" she said in laughing protest. "I would much rather see a fight than hear a speech."

"Then, why didn't you let me know you were coming?" said Speaker Reed gallantly. "I would have had a fight for your special delight, and if you will only wait I will go on the floor and start a row this minute."

But Mme. Melba couldn't wait, and the speaker's kind offer came to naught.—Washington Post.

Druggists in New Jersey.

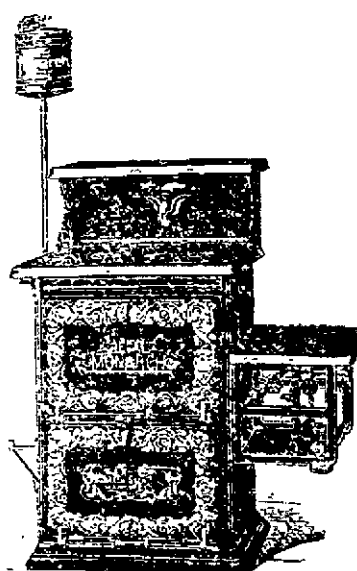

The last state census shows that there are 279,755 dwelling houses in the state of New Jersey. Essex county heads the list of counties, with a total of 43,676, our nearest competitor being Hudson county, with 37,545 dwellings, and Camden coming third, with 26,399. In dwelling houses alone, Essex county makes a better showing than eight counties combined. These are counties in which there are few factories, whereas Essex is a perfect hive of factories. The smallest number of dwellings in a county is in Cape May, which has 3,567 dwellings. New Jersey contains 27,633 dwellings. In Jersey City there are 21,179 dwellings. Other large cities of the state make the following showing: Camden, 13,557; Trenton, 12,771; Paterson, 11,946; Elizabeth, 6,811; Hoboken, 4,178.—Newark Advertiser.

WANT PAVING.

Petition in Circulation on North Main Street for Improvement.

Three or four days ago a petition for brick paving was drafted by a north Main street business man, and was started among the property holders for brick paving. The streets have been so bad in that part of the city this spring that the residents have in many cases desired paving, and especially those owning business property.

In regard to the sewer a gentleman stated this morning that when a sewer was built in that section of the city that an endeavor would be made to have it constructed through the alleys. It was thought at first that it would be better to wait until a sewer was put in on north Main street before paving was commenced, but many of the property holders want the paving now, and desire that when the sewer is constructed that it be run through the alleys.

The petition is receiving many signatures and few refuse to sign the paper. It will be presented to the council soon, perhaps at the next meeting, if it has had time to be circulated freely among all of those that own property on that end of the street.

One of the property holders states to the Star that he does not believe that they will have much trouble in getting their street paved. He said that any one could see that it was needed, and as it was bound to be paved sooner or later it was thought best to push the matter and get it settled.

PROF. SEARCH'S LECTURE

Attracts an Appreciative Audience at the Presbyterian Church.

Only a fair sized audience greeted Prof. Preston W. Search at the Presbyterian church Monday night, but those present were highly entertained by the lecturer.

While, as stated by Prof. Search, the lecture, being on an educational basis, was better adapted for delivery at a teachers' institute than for the entertainment of an ordinary audience, yet the style of the lecture was so perfect and it was so exceptional in the amount of information which it contained, that for an hour and a half the audience was entertained as is not often the case on a similar subject.

From first to last the lecture shows that Prof. Search has given the matter of education the most profound study, and consequently he knows every strong point and every weakness of his hobby—individualism in education. His presence, his delivery, the entertainment one of the greatest intellectual enjoyment, and today only words of the highest praise are spoken of the old Marion boy who has made in the West so great a reputation for himself.

Mr. Oborn a Candidate.
Albert Oborn, of Richland township, has yielded to the solicitation of his friends and will be a candidate for the republican nomination for county commissioner. This may be taken as a fact rather than a formality of expression, for Mr. Oborn has yielded to the many requests of friends in both parties, who believe he can be elected. Mr. Oborn ran so well a few years ago that a like campaign again in these days of lessened democratic majorities would elect him. He is eminently qualified for the office.

Called Assembly.

A LOCAL BALL CLUB

C. W. SANDERS A LITTLE ONE IN THE FIELD THIS SEASON.

The Street Car Company has made him a proposition and he expects to accept it. The Diamonds to be made within the fairgrounds.

C. W. Sanders, of the Crescent bakery, who has been endeavoring to organize a base ball club in this city, was seen by a Star scribe today and stated that unless the unexpected happened he intended putting in a base ball club here this season. He stated that he had been before the board of directors of the street railway company and that he had talked to them, and had been made a proposition. This proposition he has not accepted, but expects to.

Mr. Sanders stated that if things turned out as he expected them to that he would place a good team before the Marion public. He has a number of players in view that can be easily secured, and they are to be signed and brought here. The team is to be a paid one throughout, and he states that the salary limit will amount to about $500.

The street railway company has leased the fairgrounds, and there the games of ball will be played. The team has not been composed as yet and the venture might yet fall through, but it is now pretty well under way and Manager Sanders has no doubt but what he will have a team here. It is hoped to open the season about the middle of May.

C. W. Sanders has been in the base ball business for ten or eleven years. He managed the Chillicothe team, and understands the business. He came here last fall, and on learning that there was no ball club in Marion started out to find what could be done in organizing a club. He was rather discouraged at first, but now is of the opinion that he can put a club in here that will pay expenses if the street car people give him the right kind of backing.

DO YOU SUPPOSE

If your dealer'd bust up and hadn't handled R and C coffee that the out of town people he'd be of would keep him? Rats. If people in Marion didn't be'd go to the infirmary and he'd be kept, wouldn't he? Stick to Marion. dawk

UNDER SUSPICION

A Marion Woman and a Young Man Held at Columbus.

This morning's Columbus Journal tells of the arrest in that city of William Golden, a suspected counterfeiter, and the connection of a Marion woman and a young man with the arrest. Speaking of Golden the Journal says: "Tuesday night he appeared at the room of a lodging house at the corner of Chestnut and High streets and asked for lodging for himself and wife. He had a sack full of goods which are now believed to have been stolen. The woman who is the mistress of a man who gives his name as Henry Coonfare and states that her name is Maude Leadman from Marion, were arrested on suspicion also. Coonfare was slated on the same charge and spent the night in the city prison."

W. E. Wayne is suspected of being in the gang that has been passing counterfeit coin on the citizens within the past few days and is held on the charge. The Leadman woman who has become mixed up in the case states that she has known the Golden only since Tuesday night when they came into her room by recommendation of a friend of hers, who is a friend of Mabel Golden. She states that when Golden brought the goods into her room she ordered him to take them away and he did so. She states that the contents of the sack were not worth more than a nickel and he called it trash. She was afraid that it might not be straight and that is the reason she refused to have it about her room. She states that Coonfare came with her to the city about eight months ago and had kept her ever since, though he had been out of work for some time. The detectives are working hard on the case and hope to bring the charges outlined above home to the guilty parties. The principal points that direct suspicion against the gang, and especially against Golden, is the fact of the appearance of the spurious coin at the same time he was noticed in the city. Wayne was caught with Golden and he is also held on suspicion.
